

St. Luke's Anglican Church Cemetery

St. Luke's churchyard was in existence years before the present church was built. In 1861 the first Cedar Hill congregation felt their prayers were being answered when Mr. Anthony Elliott, having just returned from the Caribou Gold Rush and hearing of the church's need, gave St. Luke's seven acres.

The first burial in the churchyard for which we have been able to find a record, took place in 1886, although it seems most likely there must have been parishioners buried there during the previous twenty-five years. The church yard was consecrated for Christian burial only in 1892. An extra lot was added and consecrated in 1929. The cemetery was enlarged with the new piece being consecrated in 1942.

You can visit St. Luke's Anglican Church website for more information at:
<http://www.stlukesvictoria.ca/cemetery.htm>

Please contact the church for access to the churchyard.